

MANY VOICES, ONE SONG.

When in Harmony, We Are Strong.

Providers. Youth. Families. Community.

Join TNOYS for our 34th Annual Conference on Services to Youth and Families! The event is a statewide forum for learning and networking on subjects relevant to serving vulnerable youth, their families, and their communities. This year in Houston, we expect more than 300 professionals, including youth workers, administrators, and clinicians, to join us to make connections, share best practices, and discuss critical issues facing Texas youth and their families.

Our 2017 theme, "Many Voices, One Song," is focused on bringing together professionals with youth, parents, and community volunteers to collaborate on strengthening youth service programs across Texas. We are pleased to invite back young people, including those who are homeless in foster care, as well as parents and other partners, for a special track with sessions focused on leadership and advocacy. We are also pleased to announce a new partnership with the Texas Council of Child Welfare Boards, through which child welfare board members from across Texas will join us to learn and share perspectives as community volunteers focused on strengthening Texas' child welfare system.
